

Race

Gender

Politics

In the Twenty-First Century” A Symposium

Colleagues, Students and Friends

The Africana Studies Program at Barry University, a member of the Florida Africana Studies Consortium (FLASC), invites you to attend its 2009 symposium at Barry University entitled “Race, Gender and Politics in the Twenty-First Century.”

The interdisciplinary conference is designed to provide an opportunity for scholars, students, teachers, and the larger community to explore and discuss the timely issue of race, gender and politics.

The symposium will begin at 9:00 am on Friday April 17, 2009 and will end at 3:30 pm. All meetings will be held at the Landon Student Union Building, Room 110.

I very much look forward to welcoming you to Barry University for what will be a truly unique experience.

Free admission

Contact: Dr. Evelyn Cartright at (305) 899-4896 / ecartright@mail.barry.edu