

Barry's Inclusive Access (IA) Program

Barry's Inclusive Access (IA) Program is designed to make obtaining digital course materials simple, affordable, and stress-free. Students receive day-one access to required digital textbooks and resources at the lowest possible price, eliminating the need to shop around or wait for deliveries. Materials are integrated directly into Canvas, so everything is ready when classes begin—allowing students to focus on learning rather than finding their books. The program's fee is conveniently billed to the student account, making payment straightforward and aligned with tuition and other charges.

How It Works

All students enrolled in courses using IA will automatically be granted access to their required digital course materials on the first day of class. The cost of these materials will be billed directly to the student's account. Pricing for each course's digital materials is clearly listed in a downloadable PDF available on the Campus Store website MyBarryStore.

Opt-Out Option

Participation in the Barry's IA Program is optional. Students who prefer to purchase their materials independently may opt out of the IA program through Canvas by the published deadline (listed in each semester's opt-out schedule). Opting out means the student will lose access to the digital materials provided through Canvas, the university's learning management system. Students who do not opt out by the deadline will be fully responsible for the Inclusive Access charge, regardless of whether they complete or withdraw from the course. The opt-out deadline can also be found on your course's Canvas page. More information on how to opt-out can be found on the following link How to Opt-Out.
